Know the Laws.

It is against the law to operate any vehicle (ATV, snowmobile, boat or car) while impaired by alcohol or other drugs. Drinking and driving is drinking and driving – on the road, on the water, or on the trail.

If charged with impaired driving...

- On your snowmobile, you immediately lose your driver's licence for 90 days and can't drive your car.
- On your ATV while on the road, you immediately lose your driver's licence for 90 days and can't drive your car.
- On your boat, you immediately lose your driver's licence for 90 days and can't drive your car.

If convicted of impaired driving, you will...

- Lose your driver's licence and all driving privileges for at least one year; this means no driving your snowmobile, no driving your ATV on the road and no driving your boat.
- Pay a fine.
- Attend and pay for the "Back on Track" program (must be completed before you can get your licence back and can take nearly a year).
- Install, pay for, and drive with an Ignition Interlock in your car for a minimum of one year after you get your licence back (or choose not to drive at all for another 12 months, at least).
- Have a criminal record.

If you drive with a suspended licence...

- The vehicle you are driving may be impounded.
- You will pay a very large fine.
