

CLEAN AIR PARTNERSHIP'S INTENSIVE ONTARIO MUNICIPAL ADAPTATION TRAINING

As part of the Ontario Regional Adaptation Collaborative (ORAC), the Clean Air Partnership is delivering an Intensive Municipal Adaptation Training in climate change adaptation planning for municipal officials in Ontario. The Training Program will address the key considerations for municipal climate change adaptation; the impacts of climate change on Ontario municipalities; how to assess community risks and vulnerabilities; key steps in planning for adaptation; and how municipalities can build on their strengths to integrate climate change adaptation measures into existing goals, plans and programs. Examples of adaptive actions will be drawn from across Ontario, and will be supplemented by practices from Canada and internationally.

In each of four Ontario regions – the Greater Toronto Area, Southwestern, Northern and Eastern Ontario – the Training Program will be hosted by local municipalities and delivered in two intensive 2-day sessions.

After the Training Program, participants will be asked to take part in a Train-the-Trainer program so that they may replicate the program in their communities and regions.

Training sessions are limited to a maximum of 20 people to facilitate discussion. Funding for the program comes from the Ontario Ministry of the Environment and Natural Resources Canada, and is offered free of charge to municipalities.

To register to attend any of these Training Programs or for more information, please contact Nick Weigeldt at nweigeldt@cleanairpartnership.org or 416-392-0255 or visit www.cleanairpartnership.org for news related to the Municipal Adaptation Training Programs.
