Taking action

What can I do?

All parents have the right to breastfeed their child in a public area. The checklist below and the steps on the next pages describe simple things you can do in order to welcome breastfeeding families.

Breastfeeding friendly places checklist:

- Our staff are aware that the right to breastfeed a child in a public area is protected under the Ontario Human Rights Code.
- Our staff understand how they can support parents to feel comfortable breastfeeding.
- We are working on or have established breastfeeding friendly places policy, guidelines and training.
- We display the “Breastfeeding is Welcome” signage or other breastfeeding friendly places resources within our premise.
- We understand that some parents prefer privacy when breastfeeding and will support requests for privacy whenever possible, including having a place for parents to sit.
- We are working on or have established practices or policies to support breastfeeding employees.

To request assistance in becoming a breastfeeding friendly place, to order signs/resources, or for other inquiries about supporting breastfeeding please call Health Connection at 705-721-7520 or 1-877-721-7520 to speak with a public health nurse at the Simcoe Muskoka District Health Unit or visit www.smdhu.org/bfp for more information.

Step 1: Inform your staff:

Well informed staff are critical to creating a breastfeeding friendly place. Clear guidelines or policies create clear expectations.

Here are some ways to ensure your staff are well informed:

- Inform your staff of any breastfeeding friendly places training, guidelines and/or policy.
- Post a copy of the Policy and Staff Tips where employees will see it.
- Share a copy of this guide with staff and discuss ways that staff can support breastfeeding in your premise.
- Inform all new staff that your establishment welcomes breastfeeding families and keep track of staff that have received information. Keep a copy of the policy with your staff orientation material.

REMEMBER:

Workplaces must also support breastfeeding employees to stay in compliance with the law.

The Ontario Human Rights Commission states, “Women cannot be discriminated against in any way because they have chosen to breastfeed.” The employee and the employer need to collaborate on the arrangements to permit the mother to breastfeed upon her return to work. “Employees who require breaks, such as for pumping or breastfeeding, should normally be accorded those breaks, and not be asked to forgo normal meal breaks as a result, or work additional time to make up for the breaks, unless the employer can show undue hardship.”

Step 2: Inform families:

- Put up “Breastfeeding is Welcome” signs where everyone can see them. Don’t have one? Call Health Connection at 705-721-7520 or 1-877-721-7520 to request one.
- Promote that you provide a space for parents, who choose, to feed their babies in private or to pump.
- If you have one, promote there is a place is for parents to change their child.

Step 3: Inform the general public

- Use your efforts to your advantage. Advertise that you are a breastfeeding friendly place.
- An electronic version of the breastfeeding friendly signage and other resource are available on our website at www.smdhu.org/bfp. They are available for you to use.
- In October, participate in or support local activities for National Breastfeeding Week.

Breastfeeding Friendly Place Policy

Having a breastfeeding policy is an effective way to ensure that all staff are aware that your premise supports breastfeeding.

For your convenience please fill in the template and post in a visible area. You can use this policy as is, or can incorporate into other existing policies.

Staff tips for creating a breastfeeding friendly place

The following are some ways that staff can help breastfeeding families feel more comfortable:

- Allow the family to breastfeed undisturbed.
- Make eye contact with a breastfeeding parent.
- Talk to the breastfeeding parent in a comfortable manner.
- Accommodate a breastfeeding parent's request for a place to sit and allow them to choose a place where they will be comfortable breastfeeding.
- Accommodate a parents request for privacy. If available, direct them to a designated breastfeeding location or an area that is more private.
- Note that washrooms are not a suitable place for anyone to eat, including a breastfeeding child. While encouraged, business participation does not require that a private location be provided on site.
- Be supportive of coworkers who are breastfeeding.

If a customer expresses a concern about a breastfeeding family, staff are encouraged to:

- Explain that your business is a breastfeeding friendly place and that it is your practice/policy to welcome breastfeeding families.
- Explain that the Ontario Human Rights Code protects the right to breastfeed in public areas regardless of the age of the child. It specifies that a parent should not be disturbed by being asked to stop, "cover up," or asked to move to an area that is more "discreet."
- Offer to make other accommodations to help the customer be more comfortable, instead of disturbing the breastfeeding parent.

Frequently asked questions

What is a breastfeeding friendly place?

A breastfeeding friendly place is one where breastfeeding parents feel welcomed and accepted. Employees are aware of and support the human right to breastfeed a child in a public area.

What is a breastfeeding friendly sign?

The breastfeeding friendly sign depicts the international image for breastfeeding with the wording “Breastfeeding is Welcome”. The sign tells the public and most importantly parents that you and your staff respect and support their right to breastfeed in your premises.

What rights do parents have to breastfeed in public?

The Ontario Human Rights Code is a law that gives parents the right to breastfeed their child in a public area. No one should prevent parents from breastfeeding their child simply because they are in public. They should not be asked to “cover up,” be disturbed or asked to move to another area that is more “discreet.”

Why can't parents just breastfeed before they leave home or feed their child with a bottle?

Children often eat on an irregular schedule, and it's important to feed them when they are hungry. Breastfeeding for up to two years and beyond is encouraged by global recommendations, and families are supported by law to breastfeed their child in public areas.

How should you respond if other patrons complain?

One option might be, “I hear that you're uncomfortable; however, our policy is to welcome breastfeeding within our premise and the Ontario Human Rights Code protects breastfeeding in public. Is there something that I can do to help you feel more comfortable?”
